MESSAGE FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOL

By Mike Miller

Reminder 3-way conferences: everyone should already have received notifications about our upcoming parent-student-teacher conferences in October. A few points to remember;

1. Students must attend these conferences, so that meaningful and constructive dialogue and goal setting can take place
2. In secondary, the afternoon session is VIRTUAL/ONLINE, not face-to-face

Reminder, “Year ahead”: The school Board and I would like to invite all parents and community members to a short 30-40 minute “Year Ahead” presentation. This will outline some of the plans, initiatives and projects we are working on this school year. This will take place in the MPR on Wednesday October 04th from 1400-1445.

CIS surveys: as perhaps you may recall, the school will participate in a preparatory visit from CIS and WASC in May 2024. As we move forward with school development, we will conduct a ‘deep dive’ study covering well-being at BIS. To this end, you will notice that the ‘school added’ questions at the end of each domain survey are largely focused, where possible, on the area of well-being. More details coming soon about the surveys in November.

CCAs-Co-Curricular Activities: as we approach term 2, we ask parents to encourage your child/children to sign up for our co-curricular activities. These are an excellent extension of the ‘day curriculum’ and are a wonderful way of demonstrating a commitment to leading a balanced life as per our core values, and also that the school focuses on a holistic approach to learning, as opposed to solely academics.

Grade 6 Individuals and Societies

Grade 6 has been diligently working on their research projects these past few weeks. The theme of this first unit was "Me, the Center of the Universe" and for their Summative, students were tasked with researching the '7 Elements of a Culture', different from their own. They will then present their research projects to their classmates next week. Many thanks to our own BIS librarian, Miss Elizabeth Johnson, for teaching them how to properly cite their sources! Some of the many interesting cultural customs students have encountered this year include Maori facial tattoos & Haka Dances and the Designer Funeral Coffins of Ghana.

Design Your Own Coffin / Casket Insert Image in the space below.

I chose this design for my coffin / casket because : I am interested in both time machines and rockets. I chose these two because I wanted both. Maybe one day I will be built a coffin that is both rocket and time machine.

Design Your Own Coffin / Casket Insert Image in the space below.

I chose this design for my coffin / casket because : I want to stay with my family and they can use my ashes to play games and just remember that I AM WATCHING THEM IN THE HOURGLASS >:)

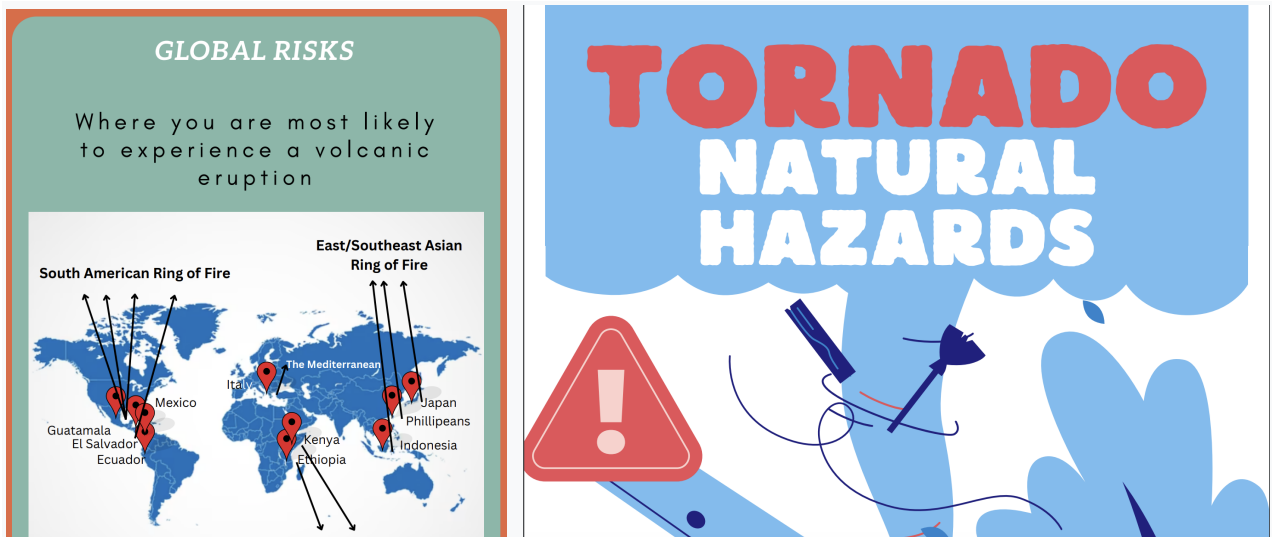

Grade 7 Individuals and Societies

In the first unit this year, Grade 7 students researched an area of the world to find out more about its political, cultural, and natural features, as well as why those particular countries were grouped together as a region. Through this project, the students became more aware of the diversity in the world, and they learned about self-management and persistence as they carried out this long-term project. Moreover, students were able to explore patterns in culture, history, and geography that help humans organise themselves in the world. We have had some excellent displays of student learning!

Grade 8 Individuals and Societies

In our first term, Grade 8 students dove into the causes and consequences of natural hazards. They collaborated together to investigate one hazard, and then created infographics to teach each other using a variety of organizational and visual tools. Meanwhile, students are having fun participating in collaborative games to build their knowledge of key terminology which they continually apply to real-world examples.

Grade 9 Individuals and Societies

Students have spent the term investigating the positive and negative changes resulting from innovations. To dig into the key concept and develop historical thinking skills, they planned for and enacted a historical mock trial simulation exploring how the English government should have dealt with the negative effects of industrialization, particularly child labour in factories. Students pitted their question and answering skills against one another as they role played witnesses, lawyers, and justices to dig into the values and limitations of real historical sources. Next week, they will take their conceptual understanding into the present to investigate modern day labor issues caused by a range of technological innovations and social changes.

Grade 10 Individuals and Societies

In Grade 10 Term 1, our focus revolved around the theme of historians comparing competing interpretations of an event to determine causality and significance. Our students delved into the analysis of World War II-era political cartoons, recreated the historic Potsdam Conference, and had a blast working on OPVLs

Grade 11 History

Our grade 11 History students began their studies developing their historical thinking and source analysis skills as they studied Japanese expansionism in the lead up to WWII. Having successfully completed their first Paper 1 style assessment, students are transitioning into studying Authoritarian states. They are developing their understanding of key political theories, first by discussing the principles of democracy and then investigating the status of democracy and autocracy in the world today before delving into historical case studies.

Grade 12 History

Grade 12 history students are diving into their study of late 20th century conflict by analyzing the causes of the Cold War and its consequences in Asia. They are particularly focused on understanding and evaluating perspectives as they role play the Yalta conference, debate as historians from different schools of thoughts, and dig into Truman's decision making throughout the Korean War.

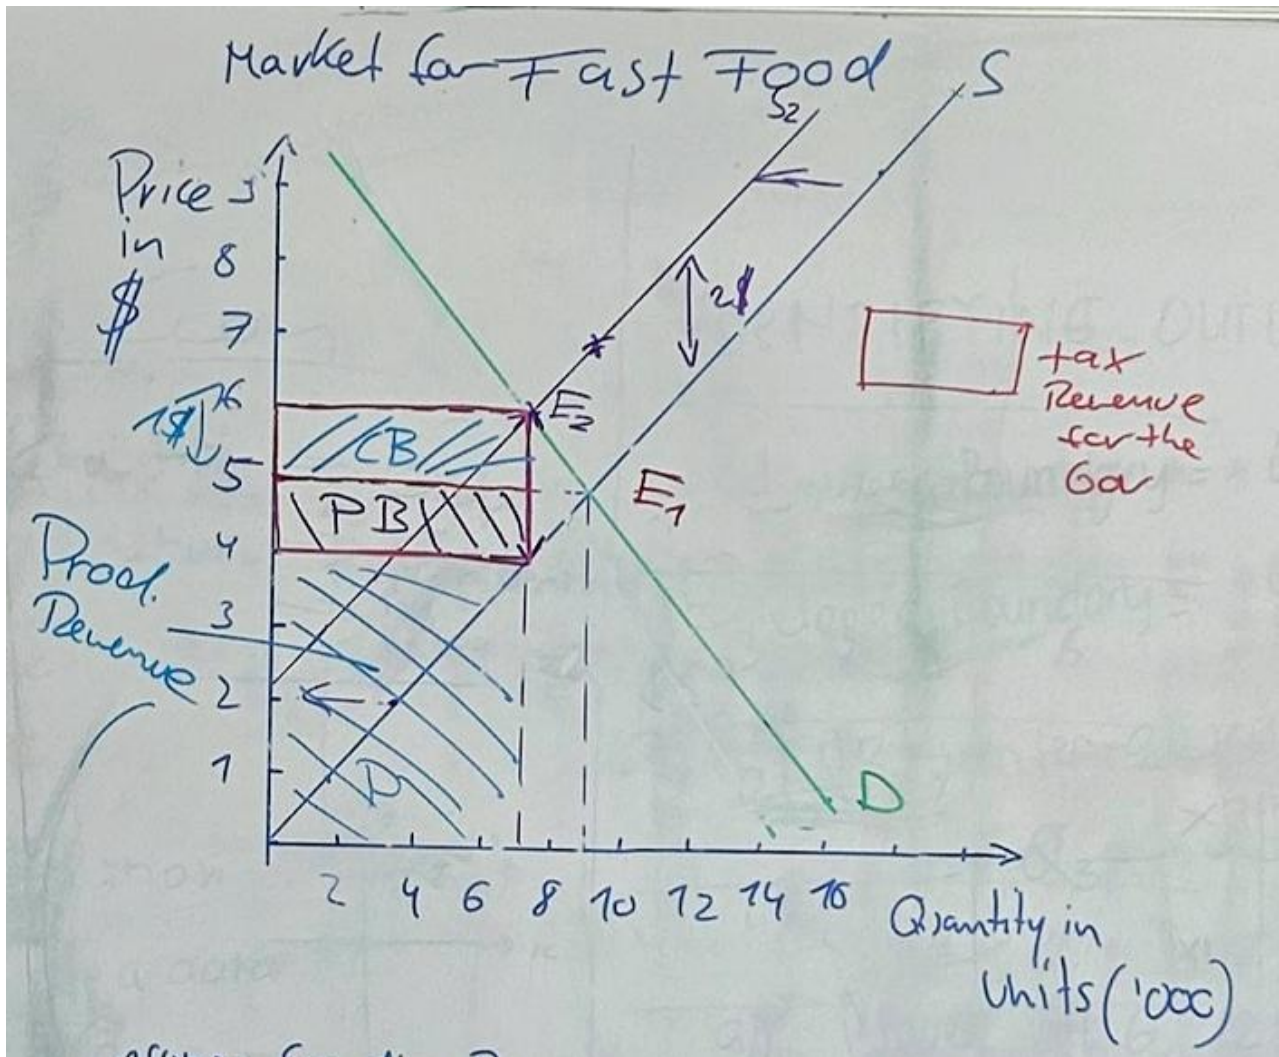

Grade 12 Business Management

DP2 Business Management students have had an engaging and educational term filled with exciting ventures into the world of finance. They've not only learned valuable lessons but also had a great deal of fun along the way with balance sheets, profit and loss statements and cash flow diagrams!

Grade 11 - Economics

The grade 11 Economics students have been learning about various economic concepts, such as demand, supply, market equilibrium, as well as price elasticity of demand and income elasticity of demand this term. This week, the class looked at indirect taxes, one of the main forms of government intervention to correct market failure. Students have been practicing their diagrams and calculating the impact of an indirect tax on producer revenue, consumer surplus, or identifying the producer and consumer burden of the tax.
