MESSAGE FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOL

By Mike Miller

End of year: If you celebrate Christmas, may we wish you a very Merry Christmas! Also, as we move toward another new year, may we take this opportunity to wish you a Happy New Year ahead, one in which you are blessed with good health. There is NOTHING more important than health, so, please enjoy your time with loved ones and let's all appreciate how lucky we are to be here. Take care.

School recommences date: Please recall that school recommences on Monday 08th January after the December break.

February 14th: This has now been deemed an election day and school will be closed on this day, Wednesday February 14th, 2024.

PCD: Parent Communication Delegates. Please note that we have received many very useful questions that gave us invaluable insights into areas of school/school life that require development or attention. Thank you all for that. Moving forward, we plan to use these as the backbone for setting up a FAQ tab on our website. In addition, we will now cease the PCD meetings in favour of a Google Form. This will allow us to respond to individuals directly and will help increase confidentiality. The PCD was a wonderful platform, but we would like to increase our response rate time and at the same time, avoid having individuals placed in the public spotlight. Such matters are best handled confidentially and discreetly. I shall work on the Google Form very soon, and hope to have the FAQ tab operational on our website sometime in the very near future.

Covid: covid is still among us. If you exhibit symptoms or test positive, please do remember to wear a mask and to wash your hands with an effective sanitizer.

Dear Parents, Guardians, and BIS Dragons,

Your child's Semester One Report is now posted on Toddle. This full set of reports reflects formative and summative assessments from August to December 15 in all their classes. We hope that you will find that your child has increased their knowledge and enjoyed their learning this semester.

For some of you in the PYP, this is the first time that you have received a full narrative report with feedback and next steps. In the MYP, this is the first time this academic year that you have seen each subject assessed with grades for each criterion. DP students will also receive a full report. Students have had the opportunity to receive feedback, reflect, and improve on the quality of their work. This cycle of learning is important to all of our students (your children).

We encourage you to take intentional time to sit down and go over your child's report together. Please celebrate the wins and successes that your child has had this semester in all areas of their growth. Please avoid only focusing on the marks, and discuss their Approaches to Learning- time management, organization, and growth mindset to name a few. These areas are equally important to your child's success in school. I am including a LINK to a terrific Ted Talk from Carol Dweck about the power of yet. I urge you to watch it as we try to remind our children of the importance of effort and challenge. Dweck reminds us that with difficulty and challenge, comes perseverance and grit. Finally, this is a great time to have a conversation about learning goals for next school year. Setting realistic, manageable and short-term goals will allow students to continue to focus on areas of improvement and allow them to take charge of their learning.

If you have additional questions regarding any of the subject areas of the report card, please contact your child's teacher(s) directly in January. Please remember that teachers are on vacation until then. You are always welcome to email me with any follow-up questions you may have.

I wish you all a wonderful holiday of reading, relaxation, and rest. We look forward to seeing you back on the BIS campus on Monday, January 8, 2024.

Warm regards,
Meredith Phinney

P.S. ...speaking of reading! HOLIDAY READING CHALLENGE: Take a picture of yourself reading over the winter holiday in a unique, different, special place! Imagine reading hanging from the monkey bars, on the Great Wall, on a boat! SNAP a picture of yourself and send it to our librarian - ejohnson@baliis.net or me at deputyheadofschool@baliis.net . We look forward to seeing the wacky and wonderful paces that you read over the break!!

A vibrant poster for BIS Book Week. The background is a dark blue night sky with white stars and stylized blue clouds. In the center, the text "BIS Book Week" is written in large, bold, orange letters with a white outline and a drop shadow. Below it, "Primary & Secondary!" is written in a similar style. Several open books are illustrated: one large book is open at the bottom, and three smaller books are floating in the air. The bottom of the poster has a solid orange background.

PTA

Happy End of Semester and 2023!

What a busy Semester it has been!

In term 1 we kicked everything off by welcoming our new families at the orientation morning tea, then enjoyed dinner and dancing at the Potluck Dinner and this term we have wrapped it all up with the Holiday Fair and BSSA volleyball stall.

As the semester concludes, we extend heartfelt thanks to all of our dedicated PTA volunteers. Your participation has made a significant impact, and we are grateful for your contributions.

We also want to express our sincere appreciation to the school staff and teachers for their hard work and dedication. Your tireless efforts create a positive and nurturing environment for our students and are the backbone of our community.

Wishing everyone a fun-filled holiday break filled with peace and happiness. Please take this time to recharge, enjoy loved ones, and create lasting memories.

Thank you all for your support, and we look forward to the exciting opportunities and community events ahead in the new year.

Upcoming Events Next Term

We have some community events coming up next term which you may like to start preparing for over the Semester holiday break. Further information about these events will be sent out next term.

- Book Week - 15 - 19th Jan 📖 Primary students will participate in a character costume parade where they dress up as a book character.
- Young Entrepreneurs Market - 2nd Feb 🛍️ Students can register to make & sell their own handmade products.
- International Day - 8th March 🌐 All parents will be organised into groups based on your home country and have the opportunity to feature a stall at the event. If you are visiting your home country you may like to bring back special clothing, food or decorations to add to your country's stall or wear on the day.

Book Week Mother Tongue Primary Reading Picnic

Parent volunteers of all languages are needed for the Book Week Mother Tongue PYP Reading Picnic

On Tuesday 16th Jan from 8:00 - 8:40m (location TBA) there will be a Mother Tongue reading picnic for Primary students as part of our Book Week celebrations.

We are looking for parent volunteers who are available to read to small groups of primary students in their native mother tongue language.

For example, a native French speaking parent will read a French story book to a group of five French primary students.

The goal of this activity is to promote multi-literacies in our student body, which are an integral part of the IB program.

Volunteers should prepare 30 minutes of reading material, either books from home, from the school library or printed out.

Students will be encouraged to bring their own healthy snacks to enjoy during the reading and tea & coffee will be available for volunteers.

Please tap below to sign up as one of our wonderful parent readers!

Grade 3/4 Christmas Celebration

The Christmas season is a time of joy, love, and togetherness, and it was no different in our Grade 3/4 classroom. Filled with excitement and anticipation, both students and teachers came together to create a memorable Christmas celebration. Through a combination of festive activities, creative decorations, baking Christmas cookies, and icing gingerbread, we fostered a sense of community and shared in the spirit of Christmas.

The students learned the value of giving, the importance of expressing gratitude, and the joy of sharing special moments with their classmates through taking part in Secret Santa. As the day came to an end, the smiles on their faces were a testament to the success of our Christmas celebration—a celebration that will be cherished in our hearts for years to come.

Connect the Dots Between Devices, Sleep, and Well-Being

By Tali Horowitz

East Coast Education Director

The days are shorter, the holiday season is upon us, and winter break is tantalizingly close. These circumstances often have adults hunting for something as elusive as a snow leopard: sleep. Unfortunately, kids often actively avoid it. And screens complicate sleep for everyone. 🤔

This was true even before cellphones! When I was a kid, my dad was a clinical social worker, and sometimes he'd tell stories about his clients. Here's one that stands out:

A father came in with his daughter, maybe 6 or 7 years old. She was having sleep issues, including not being able to fall asleep on her own like she used to—and nightmares. My dad said, "OK, walk me through your evening routine." The father explained that they have dinner and then love to watch chunks of his favorite childhood movies before bed. My dad could see how much the father loved to share these moments with his daughter. He asked what type of movies they watched together. "Action movies are our favorite!" the father replied.

You're probably making the same connection my dad helped this father make: They replaced the action movies with something more peaceful, and the daughter's sleep improved. Sometimes there are clear cause-and-effect connections that feel complicated but have workable solutions. Sleep and screens often fall into this category.

Even beyond the content itself (like some not-so-chill Bridge Over the River Kwai scenes), there are lots of connections between before-bed screen use and sleep quality. Our kids' developing brains need breaks from notifications, the pressure to reply, and endless scrolling. But often, kids don't understand how sleep impacts the many areas in our lives, including physical and mental health. So connecting the dots between sleep and screens can be that much harder. Here are some ideas and resources to help:

- Use our Digital Well-Being lesson collections for middle and high school to have kids reflect on how screens impact their health and well-being. For example, you can build students' digital agency with this activity about how their nighttime tech habits may be supporting—or undercutting—their core values. The goal is to help students make these connections themselves, and then take action.
- Hopefully, students are doing most of their sleeping at home! 😊 So sharing some tips with families might help. Encourage them to turn off notifications and charge devices out of the bedroom at night as much as possible. Having clear tech expectations as a family is a great place to start, and this article about screens and sleep is great to pass along.
- If kids have gotten used to using music, meditations, or podcasts to help them drift off, that's OK: There are still ways to safeguard sleep. You can remove the device from their room later, use OS-based controls (like ScreenTime or Family Link) to turn off everything except the app you want, or play it from a little Bluetooth speaker connected to your device.
- Have some sweet, device-free dreams!

Best,
Tali

BIVIC

Dear BIS Community,

We are thrilled to share the fantastic news that our Volleyball Senior Teams set the court ablaze last weekend at the inaugural Bali Island Volleyball Invitational Competition (BIVIC)!

The BIVIC Experience:

Not content with just the Thursday BSSA competition, our ambitious students aimed higher to showcase their skills far beyond Bali. Thus, BIVIC was born. This year, the competition saw the participation of seven dynamic teams from Bali and beyond, including Sekolah Ciputra (Surabaya), Sekolah Buin Batu (Sumbawa), Green School, ProEd, Dyatmika, and POR Sedang, a local school. Together, we celebrated the spirit of sportsmanship and camaraderie in this first-ever BIVIC.

The Vision:

The overarching goal of BIVIC is to spread its wings to other islands on a rotational basis. The enthusiasm and passion of our students will guide us on this exciting journey. The camaraderie witnessed during this event sets a beautiful precedent for what BIVIC can become in the future.

Gratitude:

A heartfelt thank you to everyone who contributed to making BIVIC a reality. Special appreciation goes to Nina Pecquery for dreaming big, Pak Haris and Pak Dodik for their meticulous planning, Mr. Dissel, Mrs. Denson, Ms. Brianna, and Ibu Alyshia for their dedicated coaching throughout the season. Immense gratitude also to our exceptional players for their hard work, dedication, and the thrilling display of talent. Last but not least, a shoutout to Lucie Senes, the incredible scorekeeper who added the perfect touch to the event.

Enjoy the Action:

Please relive the excitement through these captivating pictures.

Happy Christmas,
Mr. Javier
